

Regional Development Australia

An Australian Government Initiative

Local people developing local solutions to local issues

Who are we?

Regional Development Australia (RDA) is a national network of committees made up of local leaders who work with all levels of government, business and community groups to support the development of their regions.

In South Australia, RDA is a unique tripartite funding partnership between the Australian and South Australian Governments, and the Local Government Association of South Australia. South Australia consists of eight RDAs.

What do we do?

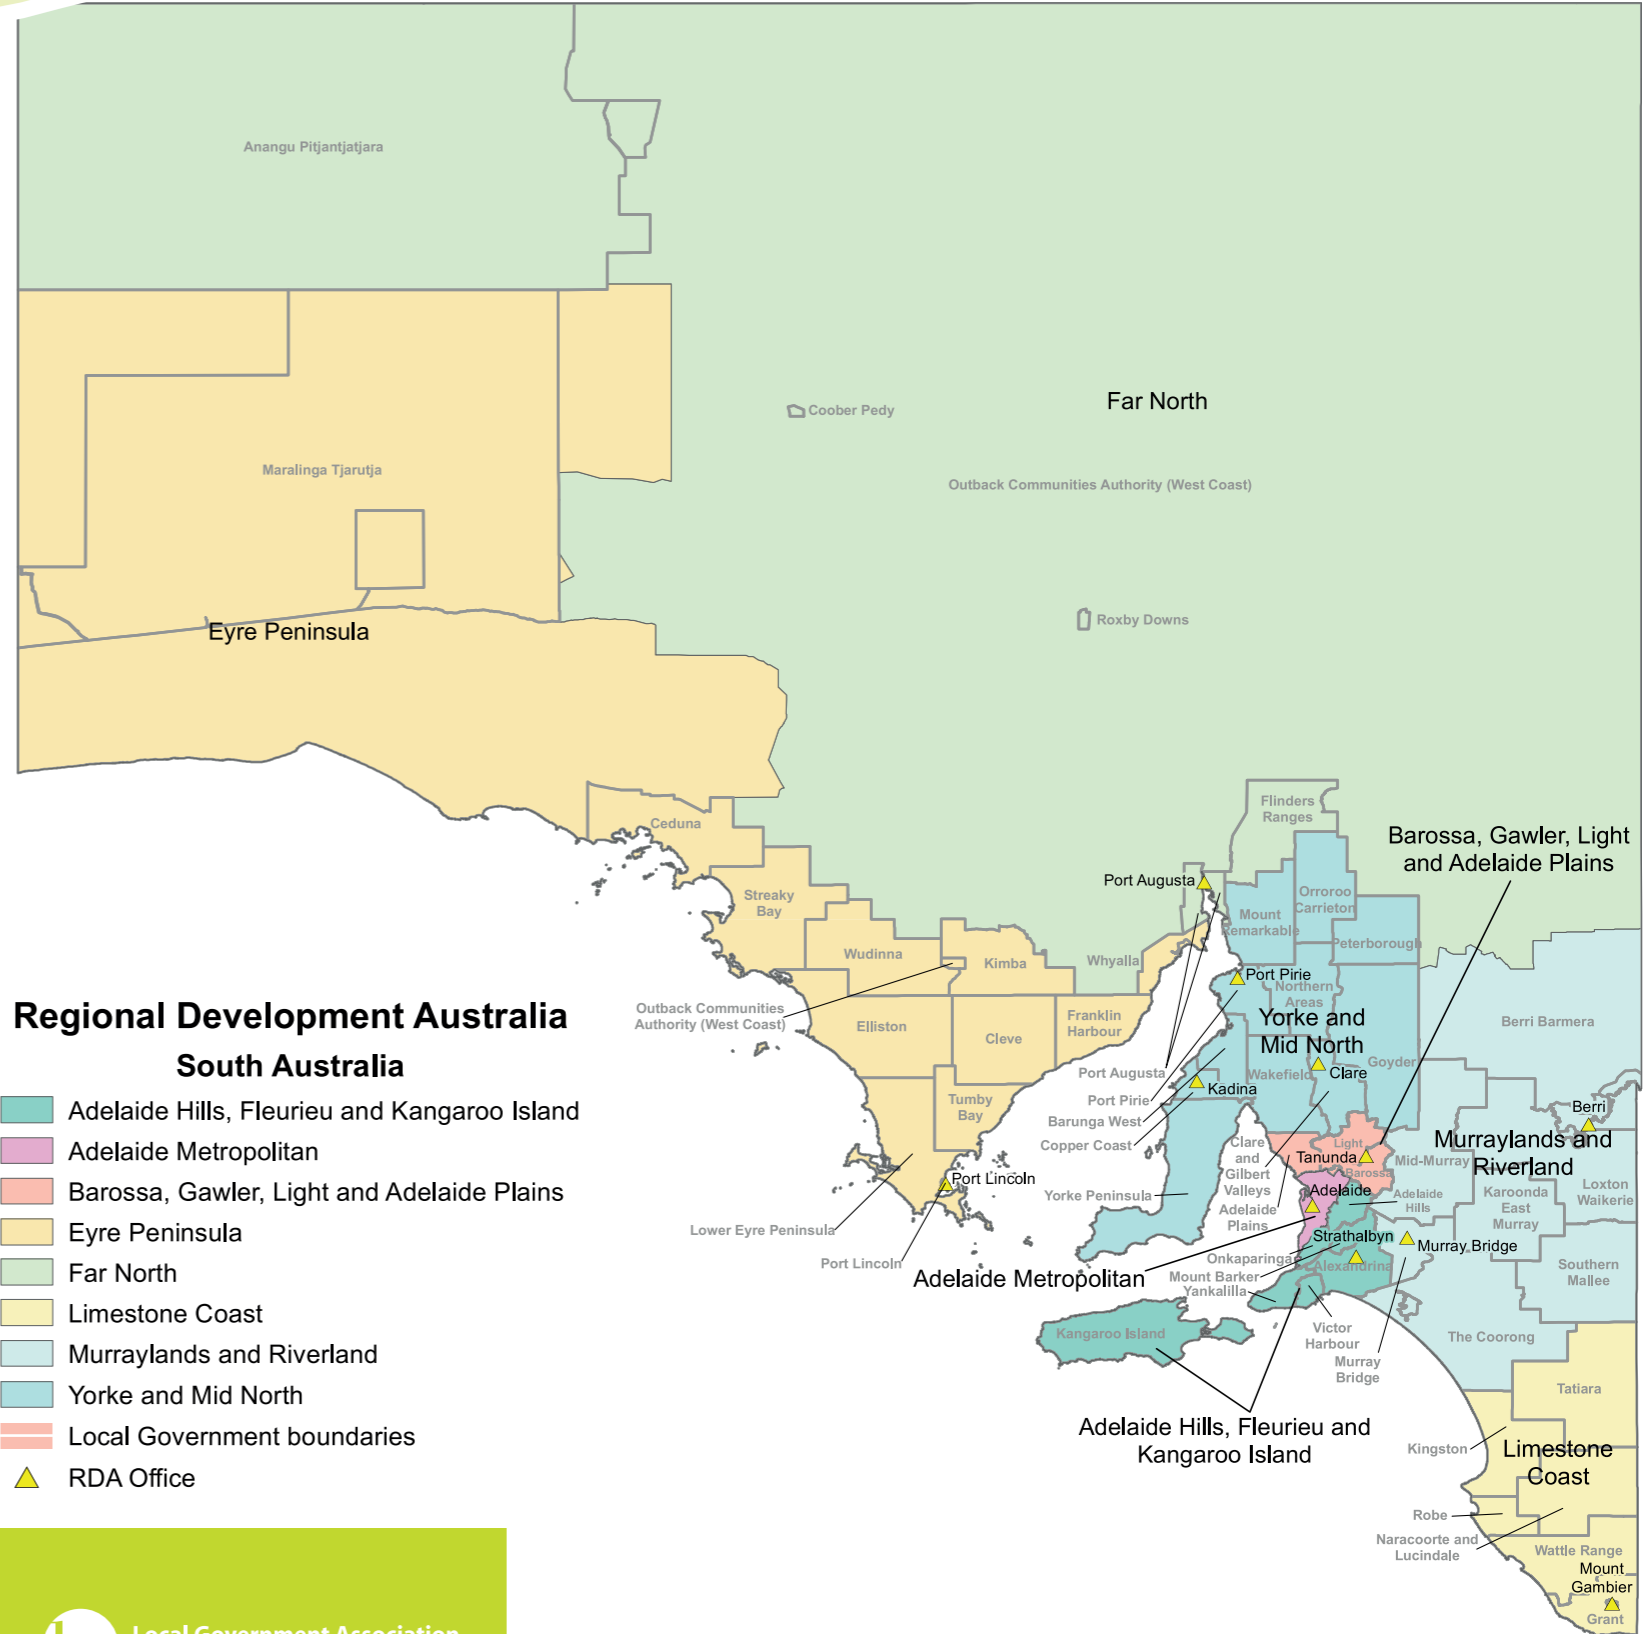

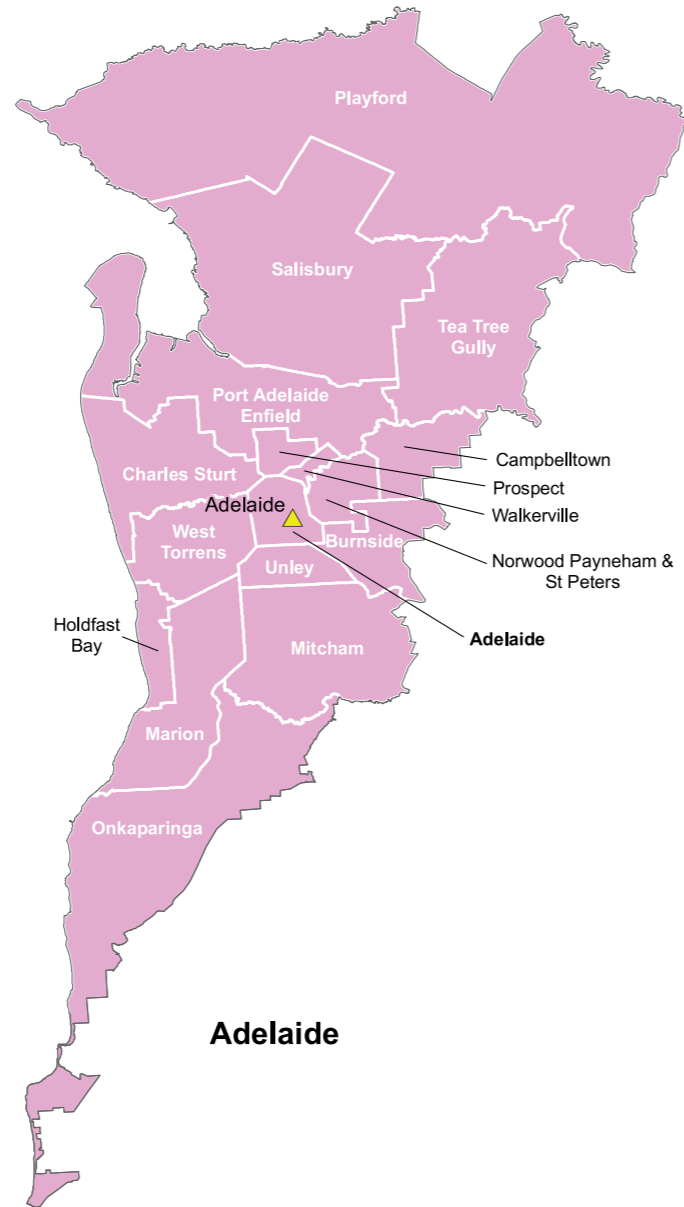

RDA members are local people developing local solutions to local issues. They build partnerships to develop strategies and deliver sustainable infrastructure and services to their regions. They also work with each other to identify issues that cross regions.
